Fifth Army Unleashes Hard Attack, Forcing Back Huns At Beachhead

Nazis Blasted
The high cost of the Nazi command's unsuccessful attempt to crush the Allied beachhead south of Rome through "blitzkrieg" tactics was revealed today in a communique which said that the Germans had suffered heavy casualties when the Fifth Army threw the enemy back.

Several hundred prisoners were seized by American Doughboys and British Tommies in courageous fighting which stemmed the mightiest offensive yet loosed in Italy by the Germans and drove the enemy out of positions taken at the start of the assault.

The tank supported foot soldiers were aided in their drive by heavy salvos from American and British warships and hundreds of tons of bombs showered on Nazi troop concentrations and fortified positions.

Headquarters credited the shells from Allied warships with inflicting numerous casualties on the Nazis and these surface craft also scored direct hits on factories behind the coastal lines. The shelling was carried out in both the Formia and Anzio sectors.

Front dispatches said that Allied beachhead troops had struck back under cover of artillery fire to within 3,000 yards of Carroceto (Aprilia).

Only attacks of minor character were launched by the badly mauled Germans in the Carroceto and Cisterna areas and each was repulsed by the Allies.

Big Hun Attack
The scope of the 48-hour battle against the latest German offensive which the Americans and British put up was measured by the announcement that the major German blow was the most energetic attack of the campaign.

The Nazis used all available troops to bolster their main line and struck with the fullest force on a narrow sector. They used all types of artillery and sent waves of aircraft against the Allied beachhead forces.

In Hawaii the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet disclosed that elements of the 106th infantry, supplemented by a unit of the 22nd Marines, landed on Eniwetok island to press the offensive in the Marshall group. The tanks were said to be in possession of the western half of the island, largest in the atoll of the same name.

Red army units in the north of Russia pressed the offensive from the Leningrad region and from west of Lake Ilmen in the direction of Pskov, pivotal Nazi base near the Estonian frontier. One Soviet column from the north was within 35 miles of Pskov. Another wing drove to within 29 miles of Dno, 60 miles east of Pskov, a vital rail hub. If Dno falls the Nazis in the north will be deprived of their most important supply route.

Two alerts were sounded in the British capital during the night when Nazi airmen hit at areas surrounding London with fire bombs and explosive missiles. Severe damage from oil bombs and other incendiaries was caused in some outlying districts.

ALARM BOX RINGS TWO NUMBERS, BUT NO FIRE

Fire Chief Talmer Wise was checking the alarm boxes at No. 23 and No. 13 calls Monday afternoon following a false alarm which tapped the bell at 11:30 a. m. The big bell at city hall sounded 23 and the little bell at the fire house sounded 13. No blaze was found in the locality served by either of the call boxes.

What happens when your hat comes down?

SOMEDAY, a group of grim-faced men will walk stiffly into a room, sit down at a table, sign a piece of paper—and the War will be over.

That'll be quite a day. It doesn't take much imagination to picture the way the hats will be tossed into the air all over America on that day.

But what about the day after?

What happens when the tumult and the shouting have died, and all of us turn back to the job of actually making this country the wonderful place we've dreamed it would be "after the War"?

No man knows just what's going to happen then. But we know one thing that must not happen:

We must not have a postwar America fumbling to restore an out-of-gear economy, staggering under a burden of idle factories and idle men, wracked with internal dissension and stricken with poverty and want.

We must not have breadlines and vacant farms and jobless, tired men in Army overcoats tramping city streets.

That is why we must buy War Bonds—now!

For every time you buy a Bond, you not only help finance the War. You help to build up a vast reserve of postwar buying power. Buying power that can mean millions of postwar jobs making billions of dollars' worth of postwar goods and a healthy, prosperous, strong America in which there'll be a richer, happier living for every one of us.

To protect your Country, your family, and your job after the War—buy War Bonds now!

WAR STRATEGY

"COMING events cast their shadows before." The European war may not end this Summer, as most Americans have expected, or even this year, but there is no doubt left about the outcome.

Russia is near to delivering a knock-out blow to the Germans in middle Europe. Germany is tightening her lines and getting ready to withdraw, when necessary, to her "inner fortress." There, no doubt, she can still make a strong fight. The intensity and duration of that fight will depend on the peace terms which the United Nations are prepared to impose. The struggle in Italy and on other fronts, from now on, is a defensive German gesture to exact the lightest terms possible.

Russia will have a pretty free hand in determining German penalties on the eastern front. Her sweeping victories and her incidental services to the Allies in western Europe give her that right. But Britain and America also must play a strong hand if they are to wield a reasonable share of control over western Europe hereafter, and also maintain their world prestige.

That requires victories in the West comparable to Russia's in the East. And that fact makes it clear why the British and Americans, with their continental friends, must win a sweeping victory in Italy.

MUSICIAN PRESIDENT

ITALIAN exiles in this country are suggesting Arturo Toscanini as a suitable choice for president of the hoped-for Italian republic. For many years he was conductor of the New York Philharmonic, later of the N. B. C. orchestra. Besides his musical activities he has long been noted as an anti-Fascist.

He would not be a bad choice. He has added distinction to the Italian name, and has not been mixed up with partisan rivalries.

When the Poles regained their freedom, they chose a great musician to lead them. And the troubles that befell them later were not the fault of Paderewski.

A GOOD JAPANESE

BEN Kuroki is a Japanese American who has twice won the Distinguished Flying Cross for his bombing work in Europe. His present ambition is to bombard Tokyo.

Kuroki is a proof that not all Japanese are like Tojo and Co., and that Japanese blood is not a curse which inexorably dooms its possessor to damnation. Kuroki deserves a place beside the many good Americans, from generals down, who are of German blood.

What we need in this country is a strike against strikes.

WASHINGTON Report

Those "Good" Old Days When Staid Eliza Soundly Rebuked
Mrs. Monroe Was First Lady For Buying Few Gilded Chairs

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Heaven knows there's enough to see and hear in Washington at any time, or at any place within the limits of the official life line. You need only cock half an ear and peep out of the corner of half an eye. You'll find enough entertainment to tide you over a week of dull Sundays.

If you know a bit of history with which to accent the sizzling present, then you may multiply that entertainment by six and add four times seven and a half. And see what fun that will give you.

Mrs. Monroe's famous portrait. For example, there was the portrait of Mrs. Monroe as I saw it the other day, on the White House wall. I mean, of course, Eliza Kortright Monroe, wife of James Monroe, who used to be president of the United States some years before Mr. Roosevelt moved in.

I had seen the portrait of Mrs. Monroe a-hanging on the wall of what used to be the Cabinet room of the White House many times before. But never before had I seen two women war correspondents sitting beneath it. The women war correspondents were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Doris Fleeson. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt went on a tour of the Pacific, as you know. Doris Fleeson recently returned from battle areas in Italy and Africa. Doris was doing most of the talking that day and a fine graphic report she gave. Mrs. Roosevelt had her little say, too, about what she remembered of the Pacific.

Mrs. Monroe from her canvas above the low sofa on which the war correspondents sat was listening in. And was she mad. I should say she was! Tighter than ever went her elegant smile as she covered jealousy under her passive manner. For had not she, Eliza Kortright Monroe, once a New York beauty, known later in Paris as "La Belle Americaine" while her husband, the slightly cross-eyed James, served as United States Minister to France, been scolded by social Washington and reprimanded by congress merely for having bought some gift chairs in Paris for that bare, hideous White House?

And these women, these war correspondents, they had defied all

BOMBING OF CASSINO ABBEY

WASHINGTON — Unfortunately, the bombing of the ancient Benedictine monastery at Cassino is considered only a foretaste of the destruction which is almost certain to come to Rome.

The Germans have found what the Russians discovered at Leningrad and Stalingrad, and what the Spaniards in their civil war demonstrated at Madrid—that a modern city is a natural fortress which can be defended for months. Rome may share the same fate.

The U. S. army didn't say anything about it for several weeks, but they had trouble with the Cassino monastery long before they bombed it. The Nazis had discovered it to be a natural fortress.

That section of Italy is chopped up into steep chunks of mountains, staring down almost sheer walls to the valleys. The monastery sits astride the mountain passes, so that the Nazis' big guns inside it could break up an Allied advance from at least two directions. It was impossible to bypass.

U. S. war chiefs have been deeply worried over the reaction of the Catholic world not only to the bombing of the Benedictine monastery but also to the prospect of a battlefield being made of the streets of Rome. Their worry is not so much regarding the people of Italy but the outside world.

In this connection, Professor Gaetano Salvemini, the famous Italian scholar and anti-Fascist who has lived in this country since 1932 and is now a citizen, made some remarks in Washington the other day which are being studied. He said that the Italians themselves were not strong Vatican Catholics. He described them as devoted to their local sanctuaries and madonnas, said that they invited the local priest into their homes to bless the new-born calf, but that they did not like the Pope and felt no great interest in the Vatican.

The professor, who himself is noted for his anti-clerical views, said that the real interest in the Vatican came from the Irish, Poles and French-Canadians. He also dropped this remark: "The Pope is powerful, not in Rome, but in the White House."

Regardless of whether Professor Salvemini is right, U. S. war chiefs are greatly worried about world reaction to bombing Rome, but they are afraid that no more can be done about it than about the Benedictine monastery—if the Nazis decide to use Rome as a natural fortress.

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL ADDRESS

George Washington's farewell address will be read on the senate floor by Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah . . . Here are some little-known facts about the famous document dug up by Secretary of the Senate Edwin Halsey: The address contains 7,641 words and requires 45 minutes to read. Contrary to general belief, it was never delivered in Washington, but was printed in Claypool's "American Daily Advertiser" in Philadelphia, September 19, 1796 . . . After Claypool's death, the manuscript was sold at auction in 1850. It was bought by James Lenox for $2,300 and now is part of the Lenox Library Estate in the New York public library . . . Senator Henry Clay offered a resolution for its purchase by the government on January 24, 1850, (Continued on Page Eight)

Doctor's Readers Offer Comments

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THESE DISCUSSIONS from my readers are printed in order to evoke further comment from other readers.

Sinus Treatment

Mr. Homer M. Green writes: "I was greatly interested in your article on the sinus situation used today in our local paper, as my daughter frequently has a 'sinus cold.' I asked a certain throat

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

and nose specialist recently how about that situation and he said: 'Years ago when our ancestors walked on all fours, then their sinuses could drain. But now we have an upright posture. Consequently, tell your daughter to lie on some bed, face downward, and as far over as possible, and apply hot cloths to her nostrils, which will permit drainage.' And this mode of treatment has been of immense help, by gosh."

Mineral Oil

A physician of Berkeley, California: "Recently I read one of your articles in which you suggested some of the advantages of mineral oil. You also stated that 'It is one of the best cathartics we have, etc.' You also said that you doubted whether or not it was a lubricant."

"Mineral oil is not a proper laxative to give to expectant mothers because it absorbs too many vitamins in the food and prevents their absorption. The newer work in post-partum hemorrhage (which is always due to Vitamin K deficiency) and failing vision, due to lack of absorption of Vitamin A, will go a long way toward supporting my contention."

Feeding Babies From Cups

Mrs. G. Wilson Hamilton, of Marshall, Missouri, writes: "I am hoping that you will have it in your heart to discuss, before long, a fact that is being taught by certain 'baby specialists' to mothers of young babies that must be fed artificially: I refer to the pernicious practise of teaching tiny babies to take their nourishment from a cup, instead of a properly designed bottle."

"Dr. Alexis Carrel says that sucking is necessary to the proper development of the jaws, nose, and roof of the mouth; it influences the quality of the voice and the beauty of the visage. Permitting the milk literally to ooze into the infant's stomach is prized by the hurried mother because it shortens the time spent in feeding the child."

Measuring the Human Strength

A Reader, from St. Louis writes: "What factor or combination of immaterial forces in the human body—intellect, emotions, will power—prevent the measuring of human strength and endurance by the muscles of the body as one can gauge tensile strength of wire or rope cable by its thickness and composition?"

"I have in mind a man of average physique and habits of work and leisure, of orderly, pleasant disposition and mind. His I.Q. and general aptitude are very high, and capacity for emotional excitement great but carefully controlled. Under emotional stress and occasionally in the course of ordinary physical activity—but never intentionally—he is capable of almost amazing physical strength and endurance, which is out of all proportion to his muscles. I could list a page of examples."

Comment: Physiologists ascribe the sudden increase in muscular power due to anger, fright, or excitement, (or perhaps deliberate attempts at stimulation) to the release of adrenalin into the blood stream from the adrenal glands.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. L.:—Are rabbit tests always correct? Does a pregnancy show up in an x-ray? Do tumours move and thump?

Answer:—No test is always correct, but the rabbit test is quite accurate if properly done. A pregnancy shows on the x-ray when the baby's bones are sufficiently formed to have calcium. Tumours do not move and thump.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

SYNOPSIS

Syria Verne, de luxe model, was the victim of a fatal bullet fired as she answered the telephone in her penthouse apartment to which she returned soon after midnight following a quarrel with Pierre Sturgis, art photographer. Argus Steele, author and erstwhile detective, is reconstructing the events of the evening before. He and his friend, Ellen Curtis, a model, were in the swank Penguin Club. During a brief absence of Ellen, Syria had entered and was greeted by Argus as an old friend, the one-time Lucy Callahan who sang in the fearsome Dancer Martinelli's cafe. She told Argus that she had signed a Hollywood contract recently. Soon they are joined by Ellen and Pierre Sturgis. As Syria and Pierre are about to leave, the former asks Argus to phone her, adding in a whisper: "I may need your help."

CHAPTER THREE

"He's a queer looking duck!" Argus remarked after Syria and Pierre had gone. "Rumor hath it he's in love with her. Gosh! She certainly has Glamour with a capital G." "I used to think so, but personally I prefer red heads with turned up noses and innocent blue eyes." "I see," Ellen said. "And how about that little southern blonde beauty who claimed you bit her neck the other night at the party?" "Oh, that," explained Argus. "I was just breaking the ice."

"You know," said Ellen, "Syria's afraid of something. I've seen her talking a couple of times to a sallow-looking little man who looks like a gangster, and once I overheard something that made me wonder."

"What was that?" "I was coming out of Pierre's studio the other day."

"Say! You do a lot of work for that fellow."

"Jealous? Anyway, Syria had just left the studio and I ran into her in the corridor talking to this sallow-complexioned fellow. I heard him say: 'Th' boss says if you don't see me playin' a harp, baby! Then he saw me and stopped talking. But Syria's face was ghostly white.'"

"Probably a process server," Argus said and Ellen asked, "Have you known her a long time?"

"Lu—I mean Syria?" "Yes."

"As time goes, yes. But I haven't seen her for four years."

"I think she's a man-trap," Ellen remarked. "The way she turns on that ten thousand candle power under those lashes!"

"The Latins have a name for that sort of glance," Argus declared. "South of the Rio Grande it's called 'la mirada.' Once a senorita fixes her boy friend with a mirada, he stays fixed!"

"I suppose you were in love with her," said Ellen, regarding the top of the table intently.

"We did have a sort of gentleman's agreement," Argus admitted. "What happened?" she persisted.

"There was more than one beau to Syria's string," said Argus. "We had a date one night and when I arrived she was in another guy's arms."

"And what did you do?" "The natural thing, I got drunk. Now how about another appetizer before dinner?"

"Oh, all right. You're a pernicious influence on me, Argus Steele!"

Argus signalled the waiter. "Two more of the same," he said. "Where are we going to have dinner?" Ellen asked. "Right here, honey, and for once in your life you can eat all you want. It's on the house."

"Yes, ma'am! A friend of mine was in here last night and won a ticket for a free dinner for two. Some sort of balloon bursting contest. He couldn't use it so he gave it to me."

"Isn't that elegant? Personally I'm going to have something light—like a steak smothered with chops." "I'm on a diet, too," said Argus. "I think I'll have a glass of milk with a piece of meat in it. They do that awfully well here."

Ellen giggled. "How's your new book coming, by the way?" she asked.

"It's not. I've made my murderer

fense!" protested Carstairs. Then, raising his voice: "Waiter! Where's my drink? The service in here is punk!" Several people at nearby tables turned to stare. He pulled out a cigarette and lit it with a shaky hand.

Argus had heard about Carstairs. His name was constantly in the papers for one reason or another. Supposedly he was heir to ten million dollars and his antics were news. He'd been arrested for drunken driving and starting fights in night clubs. He'd been sued for breach of promise five times. He was twenty-six, but he looked forty.

A short girl, with blonde curls peeping from under a powder blue hat, joined them suddenly. Ellen sized her up. She was of the "five-foot-two, eyes-of-blue" variety and, though over-dressed, she had a trim build.

"This is Dorsey," Carstairs said.

Dorsey smiled demurely. "You're the detective who solved the Fane case?"

commit such a perfect crime I can't solve it myself," Argus said.

"Well, look who's here!" exclaimed Ellen to Argus. A dark-haired youth with a sullen, dissipated look and a weak chin strode up to the bar. "If it isn't Bill Carstairs, III, the chorus girls' delight!"

Carstairs ordered a drink at the bar. Then he looked around and saw Ellen. He came over to the table. The rims of his pale blue eyes were red.

"Hiya, toots?" he said. "May I sit down here?" He indicated the chair which Syria had vacated.

"Who's your silent friend?" Ellen looked uncertainly at Argus and then introduced them.

"Are you alone, Bill?" she asked. "I hardly recognized you without a couple of blondes on each arm."

"I've got a little cutie-pie," said Bill. "She's outside talking to a couple of the boys from Syracuse."

He turned and tried to focus his eyes on the detective. "So you're Argus Steele?"

"Any objection?" Argus asked. "No offense, my bucko! No of-

"She tells me she's in love with me, but I know it's only my money," the little blonde said "hello" and sat down. Ellen introduced Argus and herself. Dorsey was decidedly pretty but she wore too much make-up, Ellen thought. Her voice surprised Argus. Its tones were low and musical and gave the lie to her external get-up.

"May I order you something to drink?" Argus asked. From her voice he guessed she might take a sherry, but he was taken aback a second time. In quiet, well modulated tones Dorsey said: "I'd like a double brandy, if you please."

She smiled demurely. "You're the detective who helped solve the Fane case out in Ohio, aren't you, Mr. Steele?"

"Well, I did have something to do with it."

"I come from out there and I remember seeing your picture. It must be very interesting being a detective," observed Dorsey, gazing at Argus admiringly. "And dangerous, too!"

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

One hundred were present at the annual dance of Girl Reserve units. "Be My Valentine" was the theme of the affair.

Ray Rowland, Ralston-Purina executive and chairman of the Pickaway County Business Council, was to speak at the Kiwanis Club meeting on labor bills.

The temperature dropped sharply to freezing Monday following Sunday's near-record February reading of 72 degrees.

10 YEARS AGO

Over 500 persons were at the Methodist church to see the presentation of "The Lost Church," by the Wesley players, Ohio University, Athens.

Captain Eddie Richenbacher, wartime flying ace, landed a new TWA Douglas luxury liner at Port Columbus in a 20-minute stop on his record-seeking flight from the Pacific coast to New York.

Mrs. Earl Wittmer of Canton returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wilder of West Union street.

25 YEARS AGO

Captain George W. Lindsey, home from war service in France, was a guest of honor at a luncheon meeting of the chamber of commerce.

The village of Lithopolis had the distinction of having one of the government's new freight cargo ships named for it. The honor came because Lithopolis was the birthplace of the mother of David L. Ewing, a director of the board of operation of the emergency fleet corporation.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, February 21

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day on which the emotional, romantic, artistic and more idealistic relations should gain the major attention, since there may be more safety and progress attained in such expression, as more realistic and practical concerns may be expressed by wayward, reckless, tempestuous or erratic impulses. Dangers of many natures are indicated. Postpone all routine matters when possible, as the proclivities are on the subjective side.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of advancement, pleasant and prosperous relations of all pertaining to their inner, finer and more idealistic life. Spiritual, artistic, romantic or domestic and social affairs may be impractical, hectic and erratic urges that hold danger, defeat and disaster.

A child born on this day may possess unusual talents or exceptional creative skills, with art, music, or other cultural expressions. It may also have erratic or peculiar impulses.

Styled From Mexico

SOME of our prettiest treasures have come by way of Mexico, and this season we have a whole new influx of American-made fashions of Mexican inspiration, which add their charm to our silver jewelry, et cetera, from Mexico.

Here is a coat of lemon yellow wool, cut with round padded raglan shoulders, with a high collar line and with wide, open sleeves. The Pan-American flavor is in the color principally, which, besides the citron background, includes stitching at collar edge and pockets, along the hem vent at center back, in cerise, brown, green and purple. A line of tiny smoked pearl buttons is set onto this colorful stitching

Washington at this time and members only are expected.

Washington Grange

LEADERS ARE WINNERS
Detroit tightened its grip on second place in the National Hockey league today after a 6 to 5 victory over Boston last night and a scoreless tie between Chicago and Toronto, the latter the Red Wings nearest rival. In New York the Montreal Canadiens upheld their leadership in the league by smashing the New York Rangers, 7 to 2. The Rangers started the first period in flashy style, scoring two goals after an initial Montreal tally. The Canadiens rallied, however, and the New York club was unable to score again throughout the game.

ATHLETICS NOT TO SUFFER FROM ARMY DECISION

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 — College football won't be hurt—and it may even be helped—by the War department directive over the week end, wiping out practically all army training units on the campus, Commissioner John L. Griffith of the Big Ten, declared today.

He vouchsafed the statement in spite of being made aware (through some figures he had read recently) that the order would take approximately 140,000 students away from American college life and place them in army camps.

"They were and have been officially unavailable for college athletics, anyhow," said he, dismissing the matter briefly. "So their departure will not be felt, except in enrollments and revenues. The navy, of course, has announced that it is continuing its college programs, with its personnel remaining available for varsity competition."

All right, that doubtless takes care of the manner in which college football won't be hurt by the army order. But how would it be helped?

"It's possible," said the major, cautiously feeling his way, "that a certain proportion of high school graduates will now enter college as civilians, hoping by study to get lined up for officers' commissions, by the time they reach draft age."

"It is likewise possible that a certain proportion of these will be good football players."

He didn't say so (mainly, because it wasn't necessary), but the fact is that many college students enlisted in army training courses for the very material benefits they derived from same. The payment of their tuition fees by the government, as one instance, and the allotment of $50 a month and "found," as another.

But now that they're no longer to be supported in the manner to which they haven't been accustomed, it's not improbable that the high school graduate who's under draft age may prefer, in a number of instances, to avail himself of the student aid device. This provides funds for tuition (for which he signs notes) and campus employment to take care of his upkeep.

Incidentally, there's more employment than employees in the average college town nowadays.

MONTY'S BOXING RECORD ONE OF UPS AND DOWNS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 — Quick pickups: Bob Montgomery has the most inconsistent record of any headline fighter to come along in recent years. He blew three in a row to Sammy Angott, meaning winning here and there. He beat Beau Jack for the lightweight title then lost the crown back to the Georgia ex-shoeshine boy. Now he gets himself knocked out by Al (Bummy) Davis. To keep the thing inconsistent he should win on March 3 from Beau Jack in their return title fight and then lose to Angott on March 31.

The reformed Davis has reestablished himself on the big time as one of the best drawing cards of these war times. A win over Beau Jack for the Brownsville bad boy on March 17 would make the latter ripe for a big outdoor battle during the Summer.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have signed up five catchers, but still will be without a top flight man back of the bat before the season goes very far along. Mickey Owen is expected to be moved up into 1-A soon. Bobby Bragan, Owen's understudy and also a utility infielder, already is in 1-A.

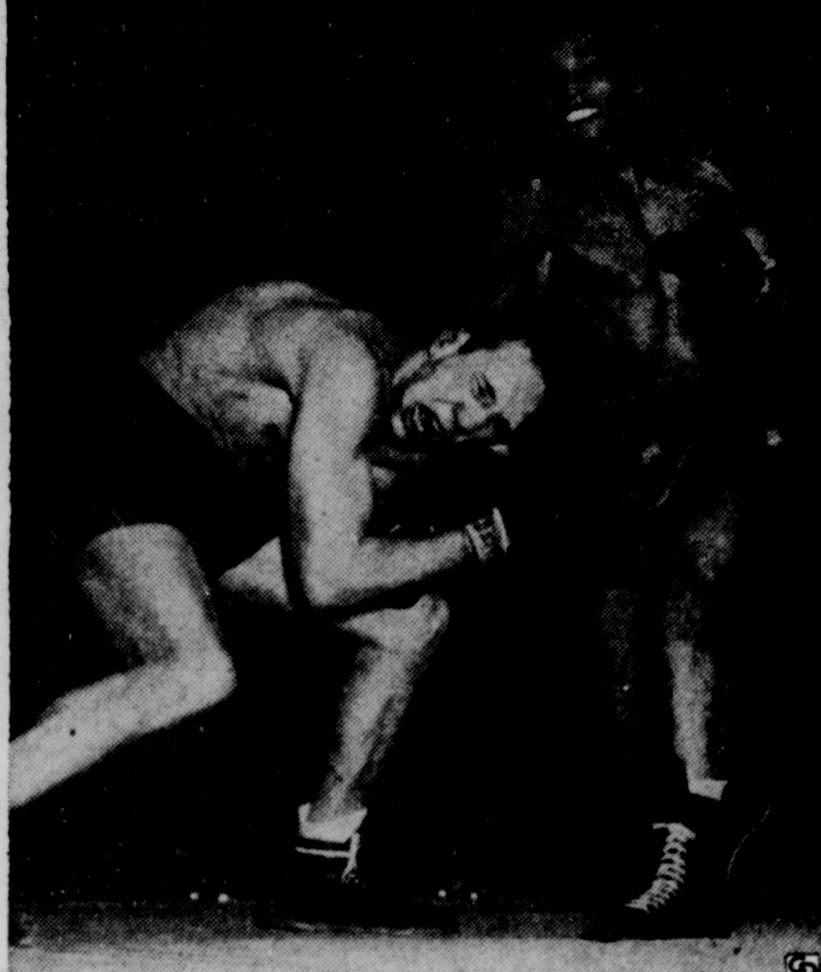

Leroy Jarvis is only 17 years old and without professional experience. He is a product of the Oklahoma American Legion tournament. Ray Hayworth is over military age and therefore not as spry as he used to be. Joe Soskovic is only 18 and a product of the Dodge baseball schools. The Dodgers are going to be weak next season in all departments, except pitching. Their pitching may be good enough to get them down to the wire ahead of the pack.

DOWN, KEENELAND WILL AID WAR RELIEF FUNDS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 21 — The Keeneland race course and Churchill Downs managements announced today that 20 percent of Kentucky's 1944 Spring racing will be contributed for the benefit of war relief and other charitable enterprises.

The two racing associations together will offer 31 days of Spring racing, starting Saturday, April 15, and ending Saturday, May 20. Again this year, because of wartime necessity, Keeneland will conduct its meeting at Churchill Downs.

Favorites Showing Way In County Tournament; Crowd Capacity Again

Capacity crowds and rough basketball continued to prevail Saturday night in the second round of the annual Pickaway county tournament. Tournament managers stopped selling tickets before time for the first game to get under way.

Saturday's results were:

Perry 44, Darby 25.
Walnut 51, Monroe 23.
Pickaway 40, Jackson 23.
Ashville 52, New Holland 19.

Perry and Walnut and Ashville and Pickaway will tangle next Friday night in the semi-final round.

A surprising Darby team outplayed Perry in the first two periods of the curtain-raiser Saturday night, holding a 16-16 deadlock at halftime, but the class of the Atlanta boys began to tell as the third period started. Warren Hobbie's lads pulled away from that time on to grab a 28-18 lead at the third quarter, and to add 16 points against seven in the last canto.

Red Hobbie and Orihood piled up the points, getting 13 and 12, respectively. Furniss hit for 13 for the losers.

Walnut in Form
Walnut turned on the heat at the outset to win handily from Monroe, grabbing a 13-4 lead at the quarter, and holding a 26-7 edge at the intermission.

Pontius copped 17 points on seven actions and three charities, and he had a lot of help from Heath and other members of the cast in adding points. Pontius got nine points in the first period.

Monroe's scoring was evenly split, with Guard Anderson coming up with eight to pace his mates.

Pickaway township Pirates had none too easy sailing against Jackson, but managed to stay ahead all the way.

The Pirates held an 8-2 lead at the quarter, were ahead by five points at the half, 14 to 9, and by only four points at the end of the third period when the score was 23-19. However, the Pickaway boys pulled away in the last period.

The game was one of those knock-down-drag-out affairs all the way.

Rhoades and Dunkle led their mates with 14 and 10 points, respectively, while Bumgarner's 10 was best for his team.

Ashville's Bronks were put under pressure at the outset of their game with Harold Costlow's.

GIL DODDS SHOWS HIS HEELS TO MILE STARS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 — Gil Dodds, the Boston semimanager, apparently is set to make a clean sweep of track's five major mile runs after capturing the Baxter mile, feature of last Saturday night's New York A. C. games at Madison Square Garden.

Gil chalked up the best time ever seen in his winning races—4:05—and definitely eliminated both Jim Rafferty, of the New York A. C. and Rudy Simms, of NYU, as contenders for mile honors. Simms was second in the Baxter—80 yards behind.

Dodds hit the quarter-mile at 0:58.6, the half in 1:01.1 and the three-quarter mark in 3:03.3, setting a blistering pace that literally put his two competitors out of the running. It was his lack of a final kick in the stretch that did not give Dodds that extra sixteenth of a second which would have brought him to the indoor record of 4:07.4.

BUCKEYES SURE OF TITLE SHARE IN BIG 10 RACE

State Wins 10 And Loses Two During Conference Schedule

OTHERS MAY ENTER TIE

Purdue Faces Two Goes, But Should Win To Go, Even With Ohio

By International News Service
The Big Ten conference basketball teams swung into the home stretch today with the Ohio State Buckeyes, their schedule completed, certain at least of a share in the title.

The Bucks, who did not seem so impressive at the start of the race, plodded steadily along, winning game after game following a slow start and wound up their season by taking two in a row from Illinois at Champaign, 52 to 41, Friday night and 54 to 53 Saturday night.

This gave Ohio State 10 victories and two losses in its 12-game schedule, along with assurance that no other team could pass them since all other teams have lost at least two games.

Purdue blew its chance for an undisputed championship by dropping a game to Iowa Friday night, 46 to 43, which pulled the team out of first place. The Boilermakers, however, came back Saturday at Madison to beat the Wisconsin Badgers, 52 to 50, giving them eight and two in the won and lost columns.

The Boilermakers can tie with Ohio State for the title by winning their two remaining games, Friday night at home with the fairly tough Northwestern Wildcats and March 4 with the Indiana Hoosiers at Bloomington, who have won but one of their 11 games.

Iowa, tied with Purdue for second place with eight wins and two losses, and Northwestern, in fourth place with six victories and two defeats, likewise have a mathematical chance to tie with Ohio State.

Iowa, idle over the week end, can tie by winning last two remaining games, both with Northwestern. That would eliminate the Wildcats.

Northwestern, with only six victories, not only would have to win both these games with Iowa, but also its other two games, Friday night against Illinois at the Chicago stadium and Saturday night against Purdue at Lafayette.

Since Northwestern will be having more manpower losses during the remainder of the season, its chances appear slim.

Michigan wound up its season Saturday night by defeating the Wildcats 50 to 45 and putting an end to the remote chance that the "Cats might eventually win the undisputed championship.

Before the weekend games neither Minnesota nor Indiana had a victory. Since they were playing together, they fixed this up, Minnesota winning the Friday night game, 48 to 47, and Indiana Saturday night by the identical score, 48 to 47. That left the Chicago Maroons sole occupant of the cellar with six defeats and no wins.

Denotes completed schedule.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO MAKES THE LEAD?
EVERY NO TRUMP declarer knows that a singly guarded king is a sure stopper if the lead comes from the left, up to it, but may be killed off at the start if the lead comes through it, from the right. Most good players know the same principle applies with the reverse fashion if you hold two or three cards headed by an ace, opposite two or more headed by the queen, that a lead through the ace makes the queen a sure trick-taker, while a lead up to the ace, through the queen, may kill the face card. How many think of that applying also to a suit contract?

Spades, there was no chance to stop him, as a heart lead would have been up to the K. Actually, West led a club, away from his own K. South refused the finesse, took out trumps and used diamonds to discard all but one heart. Both of these North-South pairs in a duplicate were devotees of the Blackwood convention, but South at Table 2 decided it was more important to use a 5-Spade bid to commit his side to a slam. On that bidding, any fine player in the North, who could not support a three-bid spade suit—thus a six-card suit—would have bid 6-Clubs in response to give South a choice between the clubs and diamonds.

North in this case decided, however, that his singleton A was enough. South there bid pretty strongly, to be sure, but made his hand a trick stronger thereby.

ALAN LADD GUEST
Alan Ladd, who knows something, too, about the quirks and fancies of admiring lady fans, will be Frank Sinatra's guest, Wednesday, February 23, at 8 p. m., over the Columbia network. Frank's self-appointed protector and defender of Sinatra rights, Bert Wheeler, will put in his regular appearance on the half-hour show. Ladd's studio figures his fan mail averages well over 70,000 pieces each month. In less than a year following the release of his first picture "This Gun for Hire," Ladd becomes the idol of many admiring young ladies. In theatre lobbies where his pictures were displayed, ardent fans removed them from their holders at such a rapid rate that managers were obliged to keep a stock supply on hand.

"The Voice" will feature his selection of songs on the musical side of the evening's entertainment.

DUNNINGER
Wren Dunninger, the master mentalist, broadcasts his Wednesday program from Memphis, Tenn., at 8 p. m., four prominent local figures will be judges of his telepathic wizardry. The two judges already chosen are Brigadier General Danielson and Roy Acuff, a prominent Nashville, Tenn., son, who's well known to dialers as a singing headliner on the "Grand Ole Opry" program, 17-year-old air-show which originates in Nashville. Dunninger will "project" to tuners-in—via mental telepathy—one of a list of five characters in the famous novel, "Gone With the Wind."

CANADIAN SINGERS
Our good neighbor to the North, Canada, is represented by the tenor Leopold Simoneau and the bass baritone Pierre Rochette, on the "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air," Sunday, February 27, at 3:30 p. m. Both singers hail from Montreal. Both singers are competing for a Metropolitan Opera contract.

FRANCHOT TONE
Hollywood Star Franchot Tone appears on the "Stage Door Canteen" broadcast as one of a quartet of guests for the airing on Friday, February 25, at 9:30 p. m., over station WBNS. Other guests for the occasion have not been named. Bert Lytell is master of ceremonies, and Raymond Paige conducts the "Canteen" orchestra.

"SHOO SHOO BABY"
Xavier Cugat introduces his Spanish version of "Shoo Shoo Baby," as a highlight of "Your Dubonnet Date" on Wednesday, February 23, at 7:30 p. m., over WHKC. The translated version, which will be part of Cugat's act during his appearance at the Paramount Theatre in New York, will be sung by Lina Romay. Del Campo sings "Prisionero del Mar," and Don Rodney's solo is "Speak Low." Orchestral selections include "Mexican Hat Dance," "Temptation," "Joropa," "In a Persian Market" and "Gypsy Conga."

GLORIA deHAVEN
Frank Sinatra's leading lady when he appears on "Screen Guild Players" on Monday, February 28, at 9 p. m., over WBNS, will be pretty petite Gloria de Haven, daughter of the famous Carter de Haven. The siren-singer and the starlet will join in a special adaptation of a recent movie hit.

Visitors to New York's new Civic Center will be hearing many of Morton Gould's serious orchestral works. Leopold Stokowski, its director of music, has acclaimed the youthful CBS "Carnival" maestro a pioneer in interpreting American folk compositions and Stokowski plans to devote a large portion of his programs to our native melodies.

Red Cross Blood Bank Registration To Start Next Week

DONATIONS TO BE TAKEN OVER TWO DAY PERIOD

March 9 And 10 Dates Set For Obtaining Increased Quota In County

PLASMA NEED MOUNTS

Offensive Warfare Brings Increasing Drain On National Surplus

Registration will get under way in Cincinnati during the next week for the fifth visit of the Franklin county Red Cross mobile unit to Cincinnati.

Blood donations will be taken during a two-day visit of the mobile outfit, dates for the visit being set for March 9 and 10.

Hal Dean, who has served successfully as chairman of the Red Cross organization blood bank committee in all four of its previous visits, is expected to handle details of the fifth visit.

Since the date for the visit is more than three weeks away, it is probable that arrangements for the registration will be worked out in the next few days. Dates for the sign up, usually in charge of Mrs. A. Hulse Hays, will be announced by the end of this week.

Quotas Increased

Red Cross officials have been increasing the quotas for each of the cities in which its mobile unit has been appearing.

Army and navy officials have been urging that every community rally to the Red Cross blood donation program as nearly 100 percent as possible. The need for blood plasma has become greater in the last month than ever before.

Offensive warfare, which Uncle Sam's troops and sailors are carrying out on every front, is always more costly in casualties than defensive war. Thousands of units of blood plasma must be collected each month in Ohio, and Cincinnati and Pickaway county folk are being urged to do their share.

That there will be little difficulty in filling the local quota, no matter how high it may be, is predicted. In several of the mobile unit's visits the necessary number of persons was difficult to obtain, but in the fourth visit scores of persons, most of them from rural areas, who had never before donated blood came to the aid of wounded men of Uncle Sam's army and of the Allies.

Grange To Contribute

Salt Creek township Grangers have also taken a patriotic step, voting unanimously to give blood at the next opportunity. The Grange expects to send all its eligible persons to the blood bank at the same time.

It is probable that the blood collection center will be set up again in the First Methodist church basement, that spot serving in all the previous four visits of the unit.

The Red Cross has been striving for 150 pints daily in its mobile unit tours. At Chillicothe the last week 468 pints of blood were obtained in three days. Five hundred and sixteen persons appeared, but some were dismissed, mostly because of colds. One hundred and thirty-four persons who had registered cancelled their reservations and 32 failed to show up without notifying Red Cross officials.

It is likely that many Cincinnati and Pickaway county persons who have already given blood four times will be back on the schedule again for the fifth visit.

PRICE CEILING ORDINANCE READ AT LANCASTER

District Office of Price Administration's move to make violations punishable under city ordinance has taken its first step with Lancaster city council giving such an ordinance its first reading.

The measure will not be voted on until after a third reading, so no true test of the measure can be learned until the legislation has made its way through the three readings.

The ordinance would give the mayor's court jurisdiction in cases of violation of OPA price ceilings and rationing orders.

If the measure is given a fair reception in Lancaster, OPA officials have hinted, other county seats will be asked to pass the same ordinance.

CHURCH COUNCIL ACTS TO BALK FUTURE WARS

To muster the united strength of the churches in support of American participation in world organization to prevent future wars, the Ohio Council of Churches is arranging a series of county inter-church meetings throughout the state. One of these meetings will be held in Cincinnati March 7 at the United Brethren church.

While all arrangements have not been completed, it is planned to have a youth meeting in the afternoon and a general meeting at night.

Arrangements are being made under direction of the Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the First Methodist church in behalf of the Ohio Council of Churches.

More than 40 representative clergymen of many denominations are being enlisted to make up teams of speakers who will travel in circuits over Ohio, presenting various phases of the general theme of "World Government" in a series of all-day sessions. The entire program will be concentrated in the two weeks from March 6 to 17.

Names of the speakers who will give addresses and conduct discussions at the meeting here will be announced soon. Meanwhile local pastors are laying plans to insure large attendance at the conference from all the churches of the county.

In outlining plans in Columbus for the state-wide series of peace meetings, Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, emphasized the view that the development of sentiment for orderly world organization is a primary responsibility of the churches.

"America, and particularly the religious forces of America, must not fail in doing all that is in our power to make this the last great war," he said. "We need a world order based on Christian principles of right and justice, and the churches must lead in attaining that ideal."

LENT C. HANSON DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

Lent C. Hanson, 50, a resident of Columbus but widely known in Cincinnati, died Saturday in University hospital, Columbus, after illness of four months. Mr. Hanson and his wife were members of the Pickaway Country Club for several years. Mr. Hanson holding the club golf championship at one time.

Mr. Hanson was treasurer of the Columbus Metal Products Co., was a prominent golfer in the capital city, and was also one of the city's leading bowlers. He had served as secretary-treasurer of the Columbus District Golf association, was a member of Scioto Country club, Kiwanis club and American Legion.

His widow, Gwen Howells Hanson, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore L. Hanson, all of Columbus, are his only survivors.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Schoedinger chapel, Columbus, with burial in Greenlawn cemetery.

DEATH CLOSES CAREER OF MRS. SARAH PARRETT

Mrs. Sarah A. Parrett, widow of Henry McDonald Parrett and one of Cincinnati's oldest women, died quietly at 6 a. m. Sunday at her home, 122 West Franklin street.

Had Mrs. Parrett lived until June 15 she would have been 94. She had been a resident of Cincinnati for 70 years.

A native of Hickman, Ky., Mrs. Parrett was born June 15, 1850, a daughter of Joseph Amberg and Betsy Jane Mays. She moved to Cincinnati January 24, 1874, and was married to Mr. Parrett a month later.

Mr. and Mrs. Parrett had eight children, four surviving. Among the survivors are the Misses Irene and Winifred, at home; Mrs. Fannie Roebuck, West Franklin street, and Wolfson Parrett, of Columbus. Four children, Joseph, Henry, Mary Alice Parrett and Mrs. Jane Bloom Curl, preceded their mother in death. There are also two grandchildren, one of whom is Major James Curl, a hero of the North African air war, and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Parrett, an invalid 14 years, was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Private funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Parrett home, the Rev. Carl Kennedy officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by L. M. Mader. The body will remain at the Parrett home where friends may call.

AUTO CRASHES INTO WINDOW AT HALEY CAFE

Considerable damage was done at 11:30 p. m. Saturday at Haley's Cafe, West Main street, when a parked automobile went out of control, crashing through the west window of the cafe and then going into the interior of the building before it was stopped.

Mrs. Marie Goodman, of Cincinnati, who was inside the cafe at the time was taken to Bergar hospital for medical treatment for minor injuries suffered when the car went through the window. Several other persons were bruised, none seriously.

The car which did all the damage was owned by Pearl Graham, 151 East Mill street, Graham was inside the cafe at the time of the accident.

Police said that the Graham car was parked in front of the Crites filling station at Main and Western avenues, and that Mary Garvey, 119½ East Main street, and Mildred Smith, 156 York street, were sitting in the vehicle. Police report that one of the two women turned a key which she thought started the heater, but that the key started the car. The vehicle was in reverse. It went across Main street, damaged the front of a parked car belonging to a Williamsport man named Estep, and then went into the cafe.

Neither of the women in the Graham car was hurt.

but the manuscript was sold to Lenox while the resolution was still pending.

SHOE FIGHT

A hot fight is raging backstage between the WPB and the OPA over shoe leather. Inside fact is that the shoes you are wearing are inferior not entirely because the best leather is rightfully being allocated to the armed forces. That is only part of the story.

Another reason why your shoes are inferior and your shoe bill higher is that certain industry moguls in WPB's leather and shoe branch have been blocking a program to prolong the wear of civilian shoes by the application of wax and oil treatments to soles. The process costs only 2 or 3 cents a shoe, but many manufacturers don't like it because it isn't glossy enough. They say that consumers prefer shoes with a high, light polish on the sole, though they admit that this polish robs the sole of some of its wearing quality.

Bureau of Standards experts have testified at hearings of the Senate war-mobilization committee, headed by West Virginia's Senator Harley Kilgore, that the use of oil (by actual test) prolongs the life of shoes 14 percent, while soles treated with wax preparations last from 30 to 41 percent longer.

This has been corroborated by leading industry spokesmen, including Paul C. Wolfer, a vice president of the Douglas Shoe Company, who is a consultant in the standards division of the OPA. Wolfer not only urged general adoption of oil-wax treatments but intimated that the Government should crack down on the shoe industry and require it.

In addition to cutting down the nation's shoe bill, another factor Wolfer emphasized was wartime conservation of leather. So far, however, the OPA has made little progress in selling the oil-treatment idea to the WPB. Some manufacturers have adopted the sole treatments voluntarily, but only on a very limited scale.

The big shoe companies, OPA claims, are antagonistic. In this, they have the potent backing of the WPB's leather and shoe branch, headed by Lawrence B. Sheppard, a vice president of the Hanover Shoe Company.

Before the Kilgore committee, Sheppard expounded at length on "manufacturing difficulties. . . lack of conclusive tests", and other objections to a government order requiring the oil treatment of soles. His statement was effectively contradicted by other witnesses, who brought out that tests had been adequate and that facilities for sole treatments could be installed throughout the country with little difficulty and at small cost.

NOTE:—The Kilgore committee has finally sent a hot note to Donald Nelson demanding that he issue an order to compel the general adoption of sole treatments by shoe companies.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Each day, White House reporters are given a list of the President's appointments, beginning usually at 10 a. m., with Cabinet officers, military and naval advisers, diplomats, Congressmen or other callers. Recently, reporters were startled to note on the calling list: "2:30 p. m.—Mrs. Roosevelt." . . . Representative William J. Miller of Connecticut, one of the few Republicans to support the Worley soldiers' vote bill, lost both legs in a plane crash in France in the last war. GOP friends warned Miller that most Connecticut servicemen would probably vote the Democratic ticket if they got a Federal ballot, which might mean his defeat. "I'll take my chances," he replied. "They're entitled to vote." . . . Biggest laugh capital scribes have had in months was over a one-paragraph, fourth-term harbinging issued by the Democratic National Committee. It read: "The date for the convening of the Democratic National Convention at Chicago is set for July 19, 1944. That will be on a Wednesday, and it is expected that the proceedings will be completed that week." Three days—nuf sed.

FAST LAWS OF LENT SET ASIDE FOR CATHOLICS

Catholics who are members of St. Joseph's church, Cincinnati, and all others in the Diocese of Columbus are exempted from the fast and abstinence laws of Lent with certain exceptions for the remainder of the year.

The Rev. Father Edward Reidy, St. Joseph's priest, has been so informed by the Rt. Rev. Father Edward Hettinger, administrator of the Diocese of Columbus. The letter listing the Lenten season program was read at services Sunday in all churches of the diocese. The dispensation follows a general order issued in Rome last year.

Exceptions listed by Father Hettinger are that the law of fast and abstinence is to be observed Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, the usual abstinence from flesh meat to be observed on all other Fridays of the year.

Catholics are being urged to pray for a just and honorable peace, for members of the armed services and for Pope Pius XII.

Cincinnati Catholic church will observe special services each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday evenings during Lent at 7:30. On Wednesdays and Sundays, the Rev. Father Reidy will have a sermon and the service of the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be conducted and on Friday there will be Stations of the Cross.

HOSE USED TO PIPE GAS BLAMED FOR $50 FIRE

Use of a rubber hose for running gas into a heater in an upstairs room was blamed Saturday evening by firemen for a $50 blaze at the home of the Rev. George W. Smith, 980 North Court street. Firemen said the gas had escaped from the connection and had ignited. A hole was burned in a closet door and there was additional damage from smoke. The fire call was received at 8:15 p. m.

SPORTSMEN OF COUNTY WATCH WRITERS' MEET

Pickaway county sportsmen will watch with interest this week the conservation conference of the Outdoor Writers association of America being held in the Deshler-Wallick hotel, Columbus, beginning February 21 and ending February 23.

Many questions of interest to farmers and sportsmen will be discussed at the meeting.

Among the most prominent persons attending the conference will be Frederick C. Walcott, president, American Wildlife Institute, Washington, D. C.; Nash Buckingham, sportsman-author, Memphis, Tenn., author of "De Shootnest Gentman"; Ray Brown, editor, Outdoor Life; Jimmy Robinson, Sports Field; Dave Newell, editor, Field and Stream; Albert M. Day, acting director, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Chicago; Charles Jackson, assistant director, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D. C.; J. Hammond Brown, outdoor editor, Baltimore News Post; Johnny Mock, Pittsburgh Press; Morris "Ask Ask" Ackerman, Cleveland Plain Dealer; Dave Roberts, Cincinnati Enquirer; Tom Wallace, editor, Louisville Times; Johnny Moore, managing editor, and Al Clark, sports editor, Dayton Herald; Louis Seltzer, editor, Philadelphia Inquirer; Bob Wilson, Washington D. C. Times-Herald; and Bob Becker, Chicago Tribune.

Conservation commissions from various states will attend including John M. Phillips, former president, Pennsylvania Game Commission. Writers, officials and sportsmen from many parts of the United States and Canada will be there.

Governor John W. Bricker, of Ohio; Commander Collis, U. S. Navy just returned from the Pacific battle front; Louis Seltzer, editor, Cleveland Press, and George M. Trautman, chairman, Ohio Conservation Commission, will speak on the grand banquet program Wednesday night, the 23rd.

Thrilling wild game motion pictures will be shown.

EXPIRATION DATE NEAR FOR FISHING LICENSES

Fishermen who are feeling the urge to get into action were notified Monday by the conservation department that 1943 licenses expire February 29.

New licenses have been shipped to dealers throughout the state and are ready for sale.

A break in the weather will send many sportsmen, who have been marking time through the Winter, into action. Some have already been after fish, with varied success.

NEW DAY RAID INDICATED BY RADIO SILENCE

Fifth Army Unleashes Hard Attack, Forcing Back Huns At Beachhead

out 25 percent of German fighter plane capacity.)

Nazis Blasted
The high cost of the Nazi command's unsuccessful attempt to crush the Allied beachhead south of Rome through "blitzkrieg" tactics was revealed today in a communiqué which said that the Germans had suffered heavy casualties when the Fifth Army threw the enemy back.

Several hundred prisoners were seized by American Doughboys and British Tommies in courageous fighting which stemmed the mightiest offensive yet loosed in Italy by the Germans and drove the enemy out of positions taken at the start of the assault.

The tank supported foot soldiers were aided in their drive by heavy salvos from American and British warships and hundreds of tons of bombs showered on Nazi troop concentrations and fortified positions.

Headquarters credited the shells from Allied warships with inflicting numerous casualties on the Nazis and these surface craft also scored direct hits on factories behind the coastal lines. The shelling was carried out in both the Formia and Anzio sectors.

Front dispatches said that Allied beachhead troops had struck back under cover of artillery fire to within 3,000 yards of Carroceto (Aprilia).

Only attacks of minor character were launched by the badly mauled Germans in the Carroceto and Clistera areas and each was repulsed by the Allies.

Big Hun Attack
The scope of the 48-hour battle against the latest German offensive which the Americans and British put up was measured by the announcement that the major German blow was the most energetic attack of the campaign.

The Nazis used all available troops to bolster their main line and struck with the fullest force on a narrow sector. They used all types of artillery and sent waves of aircraft against the Allied beachhead forces.

In Hawaii the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet disclosed that elements of the 106th infantry, supplemented by a unit of the 22nd Marines, landed on Eniwetok Island to press the offensive in the Marshall group. The tanks were said to be in possession of the western half of the island, largest in the atoll of the same name.

Red army units in the north of Russia pressed the offensive from the Leningrad region and from west of Lake Ilmen in the direction of Pskov, pivotal Nazi base near the Estonian frontier. One Soviet column from the north was within 55 miles of Pskov. Another wing drove to within 29 miles of Dno, 60 miles east of Pskov, a vital rail hub. If Dno falls the Nazis in the north will be deprived of their most important supply route.

Two alerts were sounded in the British capital during the night when German planes hit at areas surrounding London with fire bombs and explosive missiles. Severe damage from oil bombs and other incendiaries was caused in some outlying districts.

ALARM BOX RINGS TWO NUMBERS, BUT NO FIRE

Fire Chief Talmer Wise was checking the alarm boxes at No. 23 and No. 13 calls Monday afternoon following a false alarm which tapped the bell at 11:50 a. m. The big bell at city hall sounded 23 and the little bell at the fire house sounded 13. No blaze was found in the locality served by either of the call boxes.

What happens when your hat comes down?

SOMEDAY, a group of grim-faced men will walk stiffly into a room, sit down at a table, sign a piece of paper—and the War will be over.

That'll be quite a day. It doesn't take much imagination to picture the way the hats will be tossed into the air all over America on that day.

But what about the day after?

What happens when the tumult and the shouting have died, and all of us turn back to the job of actually making this country the wonderful place we've dreamed it would be "after the War"?

No man knows just what's going to happen then. But we know one thing that must not happen:

We must not have a postwar America fumbling to restore an out-of-gear economy, staggering under a burden of idle factories and idle men, wracked with internal dissension and stricken with poverty and want.

We must not have breadlines and vacant farms and jobless, tired men in Army overcoats tramping city streets.

That is why we must buy War Bonds—now!

For every time you buy a Bond, you not only help finance the War. You help to build up a vast reserve of postwar buying power. Buying power that can mean millions of postwar jobs making billions of dollars' worth of postwar goods and a healthy, prosperous, strong America in which there'll be a richer, happier living for every one of us.

To protect your Country, your family, and your job after the War—buy War Bonds now!

WAR STRATEGY
“COMING events cast their shadows before.” The European war may not end this Summer, as most Americans have expected, or even this year, but there is no doubt left about the outcome.
Russia is near to delivering a knock-out blow to the Germans in middle Europe. Germany is tightening her lines and getting ready to withdraw, when necessary, to her “inner fortress.” There, no doubt, she can still make a strong fight. The intensity and duration of that fight will depend on the peace terms which the United Nations are prepared to impose. The struggle in Italy and on other fronts, from now on, is a defensive German gesture to exact the lightest terms possible.
Russia will have a pretty free hand in determining German penalties on the eastern front. Her sweeping victories and her incidental services to the Allies in western Europe give her that right. But Britain and America also must play a strong hand if they are to wield a reasonable share of control over western Europe hereafter, and also maintain their world prestige.
That requires victories in the West comparable to Russia's in the East. And that fact makes it clear why the British and Americans, with their continental friends, must win a sweeping victory in Italy.

MUSICIAN PRESIDENT
ITALIAN exiles in this country are suggesting Arturo Toscanini as a suitable choice for president of the hoped-for Italian republic. For many years he was conductor of the New York Philharmonic, later of the N. B. C. orchestra. Besides his musical activities he has long been noted as an anti-Fascist.
He would not be a bad choice. He has added distinction to the Italian name, and has not been mixed up with partisan rivalries.
When the Poles regained their freedom, they chose a great musician to lead them. And the troubles that befell them later were not the fault of Paderewski.

A GOOD JAPANESE
BEN Kuroki is a Japanese American who has twice won the Distinguished Flying Cross for his bombing work in Europe. His present ambition is to bombard Tokyo.
Kuroki is a proof that not all Japanese are like Tojo and Co., and that Japanese blood is not a curse which inexorably dooms its possessor to damnation. Kuroki deserves a place beside the many good Americans, from generals down, who are of German blood.
What we need in this country is a strike against strikes.

WASHINGTON Report

Those “Good” Old Days When Staid Eliza Soundly Rebuked Mrs. Monroe Was First Lady For Buying Few Gilded Chairs

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Heaven knows there's enough to see and hear in Washington at any time, or at any place within the limits of the official life line. You need only cock half an ear and peep out of the corner of half an eye. You'll find enough entertainment to tide you over a week of dull Sundays.

If you know a bit of history with which to accent the sizzling present, then you may multiply that entertainment by six and add four times seven and a half. And see what fun that will give you.

Mrs. Monroe's Famous Portrait
For example, there was the portrait of Mrs. Monroe as I saw it the other day, on the White House wall. I mean, of course, Eliza Kortright Monroe, wife of James Monroe, who used to be president of the United States some years before Mr. Roosevelt moved in.

I had seen the portrait of Mrs. Monroe hanging on the wall of what used to be the Cabinet room of the White House many times before. But never before had I seen two women war correspondents sitting beneath it. The women war correspondents were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Doris Fleeson. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt went on a tour of the Pacific, as you know. Doris Fleeson recently returned from battle areas in Italy and Africa. Doris was doing most of the talking that day and a fine graphic report she gave. Mrs. Roosevelt had her little say, too, about what she remembered of the Pacific.

Mrs. Monroe from her canvas above the low sofa on which the war correspondents sat was listening in. And was she mad. I should say she was! Tighter than ever went her elegant smile as she covered jealousy under her passive manner. For had not she, Eliza Kortright Monroe, once a New York beauty, known later in Paris as “La Belle Americaine” while her husband, the slightly cross-eyed James, served as United States Minister to France, been scolded by social Washington and reprimanded by congress merely for having bought some gilt chairs in Paris for that bare, hideous White House?

And those women, these war correspondents, they had defied all

By DREW PEARSON

BOMBING OF CASSINO ABBEY
WASHINGTON — Unfortunately, the bombing of the ancient Benedictine monastery at Cassino is considered only a foretaste of the destruction which is almost certain to come to Rome.

The Germans have found what the Russians discovered at Leningrad and Stalingrad, and what the Spaniards in their civil war demonstrated at Madrid—that a modern city is a natural fortress which can be defended for months. Rome may share the same fate.

The U. S. army didn't say anything about it for several weeks, but they had trouble with the Cassino monastery long before they bombed it. The Nazis had discovered it to be a natural fortress.

That section of Italy is chopped up into steep chunks of mountains, staring down almost sheer walls to the valleys. The monastery sits astride the mountain passes, so that the Nazis' big guns inside it could break up an Allied advance from at least two directions. It was impossible to bypass.

U. S. war chiefs have been deeply worried over the reaction of the Catholic world not only to the bombing of the Benedictine monastery but also to the prospect of a battlefield being made of the streets of Rome. Their worry is not so much regarding the people of Italy but the outside world.

In this connection, Professor Gaetano Salvemini, the famous Italian scholar and anti-Fascist who has lived in this country since 1932 and is now a citizen, made some remarks in Washington the other day which are being studied. He said that the Italians themselves were not strong Vatican Catholics. He described them as devoted to their local sanctuaries and madonnas, said that they invited the local priest into their homes to bless the new-born calf, but that they did not like the Pope and felt no great interest in the Vatican.

The professor, who himself is noted for his anti-clerical views, said that the real interest in the Vatican came from the Irish, Poles and French-Canadians. He also dropped this remark: “The Pope is powerful, not in Rome, but in the White House.”

Regardless of whether Professor Salvemini is right, U. S. war chiefs are greatly worried about world reaction to bombing Rome, but they are afraid that no more can be done about it than about the Benedictine monastery—if the Nazis decide to use Rome as a natural fortress.

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL ADDRESS

George Washington's farewell address will be read on the senate floor by Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah . . . Here are some little-known facts about the famous document dug up by Secretary of the Senate Edwin Halsey: The address contains 7,641 words and requires 45 minutes to read. Contrary to general belief, it was never delivered in Washington, but was printed in Claypool's “American Daily Advertiser” in Philadelphia, September 19, 1796 . . . After Claypool's death, the manuscript was sold at auction in 1850. It was bought by James Lenox for $2,300 and now is part of the Lenox Library Estate in the New York public library . . . Senator Henry Clay offered a resolution for its purchase by the government on January 24, 1850, (Continued on Page Eight)

Feeding Babies From Cops
Mrs. G. Wilson Hamilton, of Marshall, Missouri, writes: “I am hoping that you will have it in your heart to discuss, before long, a fact that is being taught by certain ‘baby specialists’ to mothers of young babies that must be fed artificially: I refer to the per-kinds of womanly tradition. And see what fun they were having out of the defiance. They had put on uniforms, cut their hair short, gone off into battlefields with nobody around but MEN!”

In refurbishing the White House, Mrs. Monroe's agents had searched the French capital vigorously for clocks and ornaments suitable to the pure atmosphere of a republican capital. They had great difficulty in getting “pendules without nudities.” In fact they had been forced to accept a dash of nudity here and there. And was Eliza Kortright Monroe criticized for that! She was!

Only about 122 years by calendar between Eliza and Eleanor. But measured by change of thought and opportunity for women—the difference is 10 centuries. Eliza looked rather spectacularly feminine, I thought when you contrasted her décolletage and pearl necklace with the high-necked gowns of the women war correspondents talking so glibly of booty traps and generals.

But, then, the war correspondents were feminine, too, in their modern way. You knew as you looked and listened that wherever they went they used their brains plus every female artifice they possessed. Eliza Kortright Monroe and the women of her generation didn't know that a brain is a help when added to a wisp of artifice.

Eleanor and Doris and all the other women who are getting on in today's world have found that out. And do they work at their discovery? Look around you at successful career women—you'll know the answer is—definitely—“yes.”

I'D LIKE TO ADD MY OWN TWO BITS of feminine intuition to that straight news report you got of President Roosevelt's reaction to that query about a fourth term. Straight news reporters have said that the president took the query “calmly.” I was in the front row of the conference group. He did not take the query calmly. He did not roar or snarl or look annoyed. But he made an unconscious gesture that was a better answer to the reportorial question than any words could have been.

It is the custom of the president to sit back easily in his chair at press conferences, with coat unbuttoned—and with an acre of two white shirt front exposed. When that question, “Will you accept a fourth term nomination?” was asked, the president sat up straight, very straight. He pulled the right side of his coat over his chest. Then the left side over the right. Then tightly buttoned each button. Then grinned a little. And tossed his head.

It was almost as if he had put on his armor for the fray.

Mineral Oil
A physician of Berkeley, California: “Recently I read one of your articles in which you suggested some of the advantages of mineral oil. You also stated that ‘It is one of the best cathartics we have, etc.’ You also said that you doubted whether or not it was a lubricant.”

“Mineral oil is not a proper laxative to give to expectant mothers because it absorbs too many vitamins in the food and prevents their absorption. The newer work in post-partum hemorrhage (which is always due to Vitamin K deficiency) and failing vision, due to lack of absorption of Vitamin A, will go a long way toward supporting my contention.”

Measuring the Human Strength
A Reader, from St. Louis writes: “What factor or combination of immaterial forces in the human body—intellect, emotions, will power—prevent the measuring of human strength and endurance by the muscles of the body as one can gauge tensile strength of wire or rope cable by its thickness and composition?”

“I have in mind a man of average physique and habits of work and leisure, of orderly, pleasant disposition and mind. His I.Q. and general aptitude are very high, and capacity for emotional excitement great but carefully controlled. ## A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

SYNOPSIS

Syria Verne, de luxe model, was the victim of a fatal bullet fired as she answered the telephone in her penthouse apartment to which she returned soon after midnight following a quarrel with Pierre Sturgis, art photographer. Argus Steele, author and erstwhile detective, is reconstructing the events of the evening before. He and his friend, Ellen Curtis, a model, were in the swank Penguin Club. During a brief absence of Ellen, Syria had entered and was greeted by Argus as an old friend, the one-time Lucy Callahan who sang in the fearsome Dancer Martini's cafe. She told Argus that she had signed a Hollywood contract recently. Soon they are joined by Ellen and Pierre Sturgis. As Syria and Pierre are about to leave, the former asks Argus to phone her, adding in a whisper: “I may need your help.”

CHAPTER THREE

“He's a queer looking duck!” Argus remarked after Syria and Pierre had gone.
“Rumor hath it he's in love with her. Gosh! She certainly has Glamour with a capital G.”
“I used to think so, but personally I prefer red heads with turned up noses and innocent blue eyes.”
“I see,” Ellen said. “And how about that little southern blonde beauty who claimed you bit her neck the other night at the party?”
“Oh, that,” explained Argus. “I was just breaking the ice.”
“You know,” said Ellen, “Syria's afraid of something. I've seen her talking a couple of times to a sallow-looking little man who looks like a gangster, and once I overheard something that made me wonder.”
“What was that?”
“I was coming out of Pierre's studio the other day—”
“Say! You do a lot of work for that fellow.”
“Jealous? Anyway, Syria had just left the studio and I ran into her in the corridor talking to this sallow-complexioned fellow. I heard him say: ‘Th' boss says if you don't you'll be playin' a harp, baby!’ Then he saw me and stopped talking. But Syria's face was ghastly white.”
“Probably a process server,” Argus said and Ellen asked, “Have you known her a long time?”
“Lu—I mean Syria?”
“Yes.”
“As time goes, yes. But I haven't seen her for four years.”
“I think she's a man-trap,” Ellen remarked. “The way she turns on that ten thousand candle power under those lashes!”

“The Latin have a name for that sort of glance,” Argus declared. “South of the Rio Grande it's called ‘la mirada.’ Once a senorita fixes her boy friend with a mirada, he stays fixed!”

“I suppose you were in love with her,” said Ellen, regarding the top of the table intently.

“We did have a sort of gentleman's agreement,” Argus admitted. “There was more than one beau to Syria's string,” said Argus. “We had a date one night and when I arrived she was in another guy's arms.”
“And what did you do?”
“The natural thing. I got drunk. Now how about another appetizer before dinner?”
“Oh, all right. You're a pernicious influence on me, Argus Steele!”

Argus signaled the waiter. “Two more of the same,” he said.
“Where are we going to have dinner?” Ellen asked.
“Right here, honey, and for once in your life you can eat all you want. It's on the house.”
“On the house?”
“Yes, ma'am! A friend of mine was in here last night and won a ticket for a free dinner for two. Some sort of balloon bursting contest. He couldn't use it so he gave it to me.”
“Isn't that elegant? Personally I'm going to have something light—like a steak smothered with chops.”
“I'm on a diet, too,” said Argus. “I think I'll have a glass of milk with a piece of meat in it. They do that awfully well here.”
Ellen giggled. “How's your new book coming, by the way?” she asked.
“It's not. I've made my murderer

commit such a perfect crime I can't solve it myself,” Argus said.
“Well, look who's here!” exclaimed Ellen to Argus. A dark-haired youth with a sullen, dissipated look and a weak chin strode up to the bar. “If it isn't Bill Carstairs, III, the chorus girls' delight!”

Carstairs ordered a drink at the bar. Then he looked around and saw Ellen. He came over to the table. The rims of his pale blue eyes were red.

“Hiya, toots!” he said. “May I sit down here?” He indicated the chair which Syria had vacated. “Who's your silent friend?” Ellen looked uncertainly at Argus and then introduced them.

“I have you alone, Bill!” she asked. “I hardly recognized you without a couple of blondes on each arm.”
“I've got a little cutie-pie,” said Bill. “She's outside talking to a couple of the boys from Syracuse.”
He turned and tried to focus his eyes on the detective. “So you're Argus Steele!”

“Any objection?” Argus asked. “No offense, my bucko! No offense!”

“She tells me she's in love with me, but I know it's only my money.” The little blonde said “hello” and sat down. Ellen introduced Argus and herself. Dorry was decidedly pretty but she wore too much make-up, Ellen thought. Her voice surprised Argus. Its tones were low and musical and gave the lie to her external get-up.

“May I order you something to drink?” Argus asked. From her voice he guessed she might take a sherry, but he was taken aback a second time. In quiet, well modulated tones Dorry said: “I'd like a double brandy, if you please.”

She smiled demurely. “You're the detective who helped solve the Fane case out in Ohio, aren't you, Mr. Steele?”
“Well, I did have something to do with it.”
“I come from out there and I remember seeing your picture. It must be very interesting being a detective,” observed Dorry, gazing at Argus admiringly. “And dangerous, too!”

Styled From Mexico

SOME of our prettiest treasures have come by way of Mexico, and this season we have a whole new influx of American-made fashions of Mexican inspiration, which add their charm to our silver jewelry, et cetera, from Mexico.

Here is a coat of lemon yellow wool, cut with round padded raglan shoulders, with a high collar line and with wide, open sleeves. The Pan-American flavor is in the color principally, which, besides the citron background, includes stitching at collar edge and pockets, along the hem vent at center back, in cerise, brown, green and purple. A line of tiny smoked pearl buttons is set onto this colorful stitching.

Washington at this time and members only are expected.

Washington Grange

Washington grange will have its regular meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Washington school auditorium, the meeting being set forward one night because of the basketball tournament.

LEADERS ARE WINNERS

By International News Service

Detroit tightened its grip on second place in the National Hockey league today after a 6 to 5 victory over Boston last night and a scoreless tie between Chicago and Toronto, the latter the Red Wings nearest rival.

The Montreal Canadiens upheld their leadership in the league by smashing the New York Rangers, 7 to 2. The Rangers started the first period in flashy style, scoring two goals after an initial Montreal tally. The Canadiens rallied, however, and the New York club was unable to score again throughout the game.

ATHLETICS NOT TO SUFFER FROM ARMY DECISION

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 — College football won't be hurt—and it may even be helped—by the War department directive over the weekend, wiping out practically all army training units on the campus, Commissioner John L. Griffith, of the Big Ten, declared today.

He vouchsafed the statement in spite of being made aware (through some figures he had read recently) that the order would take approximately 140,000 students away from American college life and place them in army camps.

"They were and have been officially unavailable for college athletics, anyhow," said he, dismissing the matter briefly. "So their departure will not be felt, except in enrollments and revenues. The navy, of course, has announced that it is continuing its college programs, with its personnel remaining available for varsity competition."

All right, that doubtless takes care of the manner in which college football won't be hurt by the army order. But how would it be helped?

"It's possible," said the major, cautiously feeling his way, "that a certain proportion of high school graduates will now enter college as civilians, hoping by study to get lined up for officers' commissions, by the time they reach draft age."

"It is likewise possible that a certain proportion of these will be good football players."

He didn't say so (mainly, because it wasn't necessary), but the fact is that many college students enlisted in army training courses for the very material benefits they derived from same. The payment of their tuition fees by the government, as one instance, and the allotment of $50 a month and "found," as another.

But now that they're no longer to be supported in the manner to which they haven't been accustomed, it's not improbable that the high school graduate who's under draft age may prefer, in a number of instances, to avail himself of the student aid device. This provides funds for tuition (for which he signs notes) and campus employment to take care of his upkeep.

Incidentally, there's more employment than employees in the average college town nowadays.

MONTY'S BOXING RECORD ONE OF UPS AND DOWNS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 — Quick pickups: Bob Montgomery has the most inconsistent record of any headline fighter to come along in recent years. . . . He blew three in a row to Sammy Angott, meantime winning here and there. . . . He beat Beau Jack for the lightweight title then lost the crown back to the Georgia ex-shoeshine boy. . . . Now he gets himself knocked out by Al (Bummy) Davis. . . . To keep the thing inconsistent he should win on March 3 on Beau Jack in their return title fight and then lose to Angott on March 31. . . .

The reformed Davis has reestablished himself on the big time as one of the best drawing cards of these war times. . . . A win over Beau Jack for the Brownsville bad boy on March 17 would make the latter ripe for a big outdoor battle during the Summer.

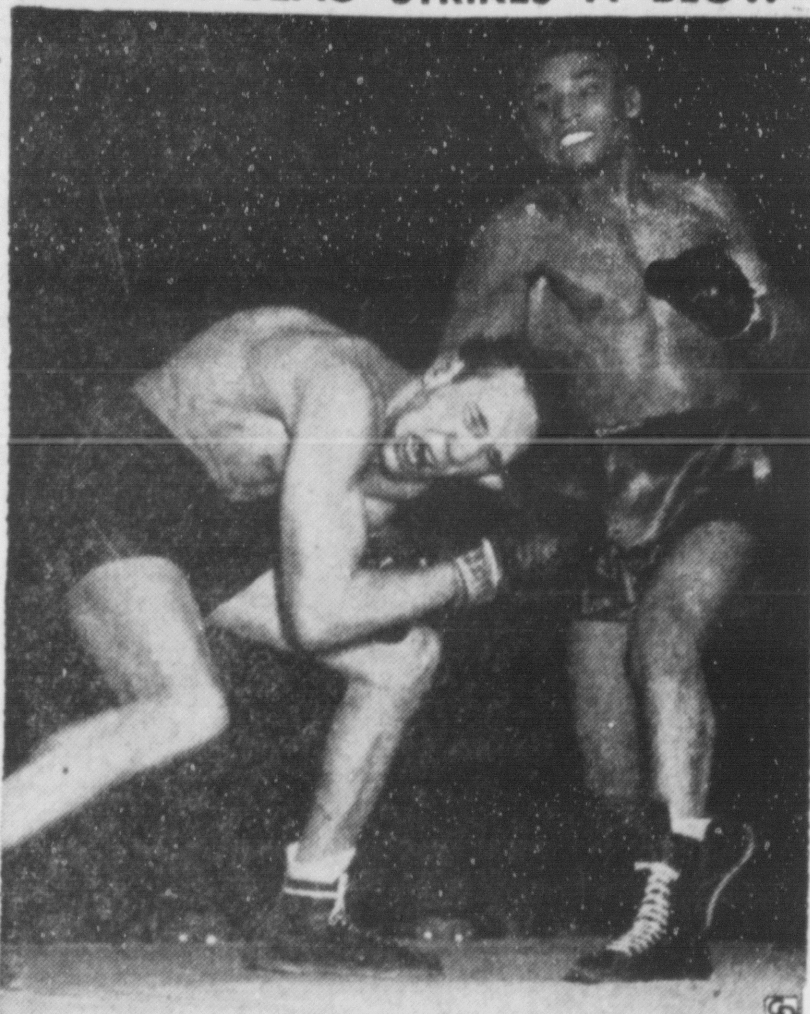

The Brooklyn Dodgers have signed up five catchers, but still will be without a top flight man back of the bat before the season goes very far along. . . . Mickey Owen is expected to be moved up into 1-A soon. . . . Bobby Bragan, Owen's understudy and also a utility infielder, already is in 1-A. . . . Leroy Jarvis is only 17 years old and without professional experience. . . . He is a product of the Oklahoma American Legion tournament. . . . Ray Hayworth is over military age and therefore not as aptly as he is used to be. . . . Joe Soskovic is only 18 and a product of the Dodger baseball schools. The Dodgers are going to be weak next season in all departments, except pitching. Their pitching may be good enough to get them down to the wire ahead of the pack.

DOWN, KEENELAND WILL AID WAR RELIEF FUNDS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 21 — The Keeneland race course and Churchill Downs managements announced today that 20 percent of Kentucky's 1944 Spring racing will be contributed for the benefit of war relief and other charitable enterprises.

The two racing associations together will offer 31 days of Spring racing, starting Saturday, April 15, and ending Saturday, May 20. Again this year, because of wartime necessity, Keeneland will conduct its meeting at Churchill Downs.

MAXIE BERGER, veteran Canadian welter, discovers plenty of sting in Beau Jack's mitts during their recent bout in Cleveland, won by Jack in 10 rounds. Berger is the gent being hit here. (International)

Favorites Showing Way In County Tournament; Crowd Capacity Again

Capacity crowds and rough basketball continued to prevail Saturday night in the second round of the annual Pickaway county tournament. Tournament managers stopped selling tickets before time for the first game to get under way.

Saturday's results were:
Perry 44, Darby 25.
Walnut 51, Monroe 23.
Pickaway 40, Jackson 23.
Ashville 52, New Holland 19.
Perry and Walnut and Ashville and Pickaway will tangle next Friday night in the semi-final round.

A surprising Darby team outplayed Perry in the first two periods of the curtain-raiser Saturday night, holding a 16-16 deadlock at half-time, but the class of the Atlanta boys began to tell as the third period started. Warren Hobbie's lads pulled away from that time on to grab a 28-18 lead at the third quarter, and to add 16 points against seven in the last canto.

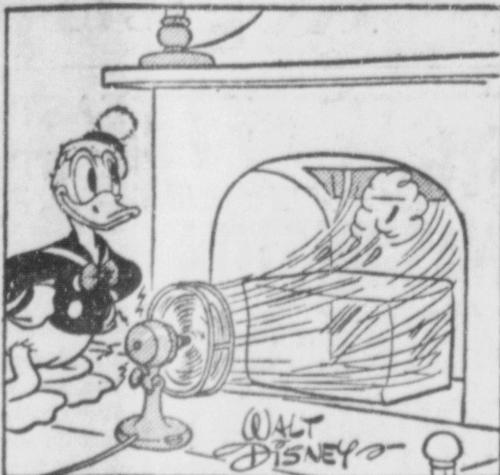

Red Hobbie and Orihood piled up the points, getting 13 and 12, respectively. Furniss hit for 13 for the losers.

Walnut In Form
Walnut turned on the heat at the outset to win handily from Monroe, grabbing a 13-4 lead at the quarter, and holding a 26-7 edge at the intermission.

Pontius copped 17 points on seven actions and three charities, and he had a lot of help

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO MAKES THE LEAD?
EVERY NO TRUMP declarer knows that a singly guarded king is a sure stopper if the lead comes from the left, up to it, but may be killed off at the start if the lead comes through it, from the right. Most good players know the same principle applies with reverse fashion if you hold two or three cards headed by an ace, opposite two or more headed by the queen, that a lead through the ace makes the queen a sure trick-taker, while a lead up to the ace, through the queen, may kill the face card. How many think of that applying also to a suit contract?

Spades, there was no chance to stop him, as a heart lead would have been up to the K. Actually, West led a club, away from his own K. South refused the finesse, took out trumps and used diamonds to discard all but one heart. Both of these North-South pairs in a duplicate were devotees of the Blackwood convention, but South at Table 2 decided it was more important to use a 5-Spade bid to commit his side to a slam. On that bidding, any fine player in the North, who could not support a three-bid spade suit—thus a six-card suit—would have bid 6-Clubs in response to give South a choice between the clubs and diamonds.

North in this case decided, however, that his singleton A was enough. South there bid pretty strongly, to be sure, but made his hand a trick stronger thereby.

ALAN LADD GUEST
Alan Ladd, who knows something, too, about the quirks and fancies of admiring lady fans, will be Frank Sinatra's guest, Wednesday, February 23, at 8 p. m., over the Columbia network. Frank's self-appointed protector and defender of Sinatra rights, Bert Wheeler, will put in his regular appearance on the half-hour show. Ladd's studio figures his fan mail averages well over 70,000 pieces each month. In less than a year following the release of his first picture "This Gun for Hire," Ladd becomes the idol of many admiring young ladies. In theatre lobbies where his pictures were displayed, ardent fans removed them from their holders at such a rapid rate that managers were obliged to keep a stock supply on hand.

"The Voice" will feature his selection of songs on the musical side of the evening's entertainment.

DUNNINGER
Wren Dunninger, the master mentalist, broadcasts his Wednesday program from Memphis, Tenn., at 8 p. m., four prominent local figures will be judges of his telepathic wizardry. The two judges already chosen are Brigadier General Danielson and Roy Acuff, a prominent Nashville, Tenn. son, who's well known to dialers as a singing headliner on the "Grand Ole Opry" program, 17-year-old air-show which originates in Nashville. Dunninger will "project" to tuners-in—via mental telepathy—one of a list of five characters in the famous novel, "Gone With the Wind."

CANADIAN SINGERS
Our good neighbor to the North, Canada, is represented by the tenor Leopold Simoneau and the bass baritone Pierre Rochette, on the "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air," Sunday, February 27, at 3:30 p. m. Both singers hail from Montreal. Both singers are competing for a Metropolitan Opera contract.

FRANCHOT TONE
Hollywood Star Franchot Tone appears on the "Stage Door Canteen" broadcast as one of a quartet of guests for the airing on Friday, February 25, at 9:30 p. m., over station WBNS. Other guests for the occasion have not been named. Bert Lytell is master of ceremonies, and Raymond Paige conducts the "Canteen" orchestra.

"SHOO SHOO BABY"
Xavier Cugat introduces his Spanish version of "Shoo Shoo Baby," as a highlight of "Your Dubonnet Date" on Wednesday, February 23, at 7:30 p. m., over WHKC. The translated version, which will be part of Cugat's act during his appearance at the Paramount Theatre in New York, will be sung by Lina Romay, Del Campo sings "Prisionero del Mar," and Don Rodney's solo is "Speak Low." Orchestral selections include "Mexican Hat Dance," "Temptation," "Joropa," "In a Persian Market" and "Gypsy Conga."

GLORIA deHAVEN
Frank Sinatra's leading lady when he appears on "Screen Guild Players" on Monday, February 28, at 9 p. m., over WBNS, will be pretty petite Gloria de Haven, daughter of the famous Carter de Haven. The swoon-singer and the starlet will join in a special adaptation of a recent movie hit.

Visitors to New York's new Civic Center will be hearing many of Morton Gould's serious orchestral works. Leopold Stokowski, its director of music, has acclaimed the youthful CBS "Carnival" maestro a pioneer in interpreting American folk compositions and Stokowski plans to devote a large portion of his programs to our native melodies.

Red Cross Blood Bank Registration To Start Next Week

DONATIONS TO BE TAKEN OVER TWO DAY PERIOD

March 9 And 10 Dates Set For Obtaining Increased Quota In County

PLASMA NEED MOUNTS

Offensive Warfare Brings Increasing Drain On National Surplus

Registration will get under way in Circleville during the next week for the fifth visit of the Franklin county Red Cross mobile unit to Circleville.

Blood donations will be taken during a two-day visit of the mobile outfit, dates for the visit being set for March 9 and 10.

Hal Dean, who has served successfully as chairman of the Red Cross organization blood bank committee in all four of its previous visits, is expected to handle details of the fifth visit.

Since the date for the visit is more than three weeks away, it is probable that arrangements for the registration will be worked out in the next few days. Dates for the sign up, usually in charge of Mrs. A. Hulise Hays will be announced by the end of this week.

Quotas Increased
Red Cross officials have been increasing the quotas for each of the cities in which its mobile unit has been appearing.

Army and navy officials have been urging that every community rally to the Red Cross blood donation program as nearly 100 percent as possible. The need for blood plasma has become greater in the last month than ever before.

Offensive warfare, which Uncle Sam's troops and sailors are carrying out on every front, is always more costly in casualties than defensive war. Thousands of units of blood plasma must be collected each month in Ohio, and Circleville and Pickaway county folk are being urged to do their share.

That there will be little difficulty in filling the local quota, no matter how high it may be, is predicted. In several of the mobile unit's visits the necessary number of persons was difficult to obtain, but in the fourth visit scores of persons, most of them from rural areas, who had never before donated blood came to the aid of wounded men of Uncle Sam's army and of the Allies.

Grange To Contribute
Salt creek township Grangers have also taken a patriotic step, voting unanimously to give blood at the next opportunity. The Grange expects to send all its eligible persons to the blood bank at the same time.

It is probable that the blood collection center will be set up again in the First Methodist church basement, that spot serving in all the previous four visits of the unit.

The Red Cross has been striving for 150 pints daily in its mobile unit tours. At Chillicothe last week 468 pints of blood were obtained in three days. Five hundred and sixteen persons appeared, but some were dismissed, mostly because of colds. One hundred and thirty-four persons who had registered cancelled their reservations and 32 failed to show up without notifying Red Cross Cross officials.

It is likely that many Circleville and Pickaway county persons who have already given blood four times will be back on the schedule again for the fifth visit.

PRICE CEILING ORDINANCE READ AT LANCASTER

District Office of Price Administration's move to make violations punishable under city ordinance has taken its first step with Lancaster city council giving such an ordinance its first reading.

The measure will not be voted on until after a third reading, so no true test of the measure can be learned until the legislation has made its way through the three readings.

The ordinance would give the mayor's court jurisdiction in cases of violation of OPA price ceilings and rationing orders.

If the measure is given a fair hearing in Lancaster, OPA officials have hinted, other county seats will be asked to pass the same ordinance.

CHURCH COUNCIL ACTS TO BALK FUTURE WARS

To muster the united strength of the churches in support of American participation in world organization to prevent future wars, the Ohio Council of Churches is arranging a series of county inter-church meetings throughout the state. One of these meetings will be held in Circleville March 7 at the United Brethren church.

While all arrangements have not been completed, it is planned to have a youth meeting in the afternoon and a general meeting at night.

Arrangements are being made under direction of the Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the First Methodist church in behalf of the Ohio Council of Churches.

More than 40 representative clergymen of many denominations are being enlisted to make up teams of speakers who will travel in circuits over Ohio, presenting various phases of the general theme of "World Government" in a series of all-day sessions. The entire program will be concentrated in the two weeks from March 6 to 17.

Names of the speakers who will give addresses and conduct discussions at the meeting here will be announced soon. Meanwhile local pastors are laying plans to insure large attendance at the conference from all the churches of the county.

In outlining plans in Columbus for the state-wide series of peace meetings, Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, emphasized the view that the development of sentiment for orderly world organization is a primary responsibility of the churches.

"America, and particularly the religious forces of America, must not fail in doing all that is in our power to make this the last great war," he said. "We need a world order based on Christian principles of right and justice, and the churches must lead in attaining that ideal."

MCCORD WINS BONDS
Harold McCord of Washington C. H. former manager of the Circleville Cussins and Fearn Co. store, won two $25 War Bonds when his store exceeded its Fourth War Loan quota by 1,150 percent. McCord led in his store manager's group.

JOHN FYFFE IN JAIL
John Fyffe, 61, is back in county jail for a rest period after running afoul of Mayor Ben Gordon's police force Saturday night. Fyffe, who has spent about as much time in jail as out in the last six months, will serve out a term of $25 and costs assessed by Mayor Gordon.

LENT C. HANSON DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

Lent C. Hanson, 50, a resident of Columbus but widely known in Circleville, died Saturday in University hospital, Columbus, after illness of four months. Mr. Hanson and his wife were members of the Pickaway Country Club for several years. Mr. Hanson holding the club golf championship at one time.

Mr. Hanson was treasurer of the Columbus Metal Products Co., was a prominent golfer in the capital city, and was also one of the city's leading bowlers. He had served as secretary-treasurer of the Columbus District Golf association, was a member of Scioto Country club, Kiwanis club and American Legion.

His widow, Gwen Howells Hanson, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore L. Hanson, all of Columbus, are his only survivors.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Schoedinger chapel, Columbus, with burial in Greenlawn cemetery.

DEATH CLOSES CAREER OF MRS. SARAH PARRETT
Mrs. Sarah A. Parrett, widow of Henry McDonald Parrett and one of Circleville's oldest women, died quietly at 6 a. m. Sunday at her home, 122 West Franklin street. Had Mrs. Parrett lived until June 15 she would have been 94. She had been a resident of Circleville for 70 years.

A native of Hickman, Ky., Mrs. Parrett was born June 15, 1850, a daughter of Joseph Amberg and Betsy Jane Mays. She removed to Circleville January 24, 1874, and was married to Mr. Parrett a month later.

Mr. and Mrs. Parrett had eight children, four surviving. Among the survivors are the Misses Irene and Winifred, at home; Mrs. Fannie Roebuck, West Franklin street, and Wolfson Parrett, of Columbus. Four children, Joseph, Henry, Mary Alice Parrett and Mrs. Jane Bloom Curl, preceded their mother in death. There are also two grandchildren, one of whom is Major James Curl, a hero of the North African air war, and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Parrett, an invalid 14 years, was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Private funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Parrett home, the Rev. Carl Kennedy officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by L. M. Mader. The body will remain at the Parrett home where friends may call.

AUTO CRASHES INTO WINDOW AT HALEY CAFE

Considerable damage was done at 11:30 p. m. Saturday at Haley's Cafe, West Main street, when a parked automobile went out of control, crashing through the west window of the cafe and then going into the interior of the building before it was stopped.

Mrs. Marie Goodman, of Circleville, who was inside the cafe at the time was taken to Berger hospital for medical treatment for minor injuries suffered when the car went through the window. Several other persons were bruised, none seriously.

The car which did all the damage was owned by Pearl Graham, 151 East Mill street, Graham was inside the cafe at the time of the accident.

Police said that the Graham car was parked in front of the Crites filling station at Main and Western avenues, and that Mary Garvey, 119 1/2 East Main street, and Mildred Smith, 156 York street, were sitting in the vehicle. Police report that one of the two women turned a key which she thought started the heater, but that the key started the car. The vehicle was in reverse. It went across Main street, damaged the front of a parked car belonging to a Williamsport man named Estep, and then went into the cafe.

Neither of the women in the Graham car was hurt.

SHOE FIGHT
A hot fight is raging backstage between the WPB and the OPA over shoe leather. Inside fact is that the shoes you are wearing are inferior not entirely because the best leather is rightfully being allocated to the armed forces. That is only part of the story.

Another reason why your shoes are inferior and your shoe bill higher is that certain industry moguls in WPB's leather and shoe branch have been blocking a program to prolong the wear of civilian shoes by the application of wax and oil treatments to soles. The process costs only 2 or 3 cents a shoe, but many manufacturers don't like it because it isn't glossy enough. They say that consumers prefer shoes with a high, light polish on the sole, though they admit that this polish robs the sole of some of its wearing quality.

Bureau of Standards experts have testified at hearings of the Senate war-mobilization committee, headed by West Virginia's Senator Harley Kilgore, that the use of oil (by actual test) prolongs the life of shoes 14 percent, while soles treated with wax preparations last from 30 to 41 percent longer.

This has been corroborated by leading industry spokesmen, including Paul C. Wolfer, a vice president of the Douglas Shoe Company, who is a consultant in the standards division of the OPA. Wolfer not only urged general adoption of oil-wax treatments but intimated that the Government should crack down on the shoe industry and require it.

In addition to cutting down the nation's shoe bill, another factor Wolfer emphasized was wartime conservation of leather. So far, however, the OPA has made little progress in selling the oil-treatment idea to the WPB. Some manufacturers have adopted the sole treatments voluntarily, but only on a very limited scale.

The big shoe companies, OPA claims, are antagonistic. In this, they have the potent backing of the WPB's leather and shoe branch, headed by Lawrence B. Sheppard, a vice president of the Hanover Shoe Company.

Before the Kilgore committee, Sheppard expounded at length on "manufacturing difficulties," lack of conclusive tests, and other objections to a government order requiring the oil treatment of soles. His statement was effectively contradicted by other witnesses, who brought out that tests had been adequate and that facilities for sole treatments could be installed throughout the country with little difficulty and at small cost.

NOTE:—The Kilgore committee has finally sent a hot note to Donald Nelson demanding that he issue an order to compel the general adoption of sole treatments by shoe companies.

FAST LAWS OF LENT SET ASIDE FOR CATHOLICS

Catholics who are members of St. Joseph's church, Circleville, and all others in the Diocese of Columbus are exempted from the fast and abstinence laws of Lent with certain exceptions for the remainder of the war.

The Rev. Father Edward Reidy, St. Joseph's priest, has been so informed by the Rt. Rev. Father Edward Hettinger, administrator of the Diocese of Columbus. The letter listing the Lenten season program was read at services Sunday in all churches of the diocese.

The dispensation follows a general order issued in Rome last year.

Exceptions listed by Father Hettinger are that the law of fast and abstinence is to be observed Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, the usual abstinence from flesh meat to be observed on all other Fridays of the year.

Catholics are being urged to pray for a just and honorable peace, for members of the armed services and for Pope Pius XII.

Circleville Catholic church will observe special services each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday evenings during Lent at 7:30. On Wednesdays and Sundays, the Rev. Father Reidy will have a sermon and the service of the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be conducted and on Friday there will be Stations of the Cross.

HOSE USED TO PIPE GAS BLAMED FOR $50 FIRE

Use of a rubber hose for running gas into a heater in an upstairs room was blamed Saturday evening by firemen for a $50 blaze at the home of the Rev. George W. Smith, 980 North Court street. Firemen said the gas had escaped from the connection and had ignited. A hole was burned in a closet door and there was additional damage from smoke. The fire call was received at 8:15 p. m.

TAX DEADLINE STICKS

Persons who have been expecting Mr. Whiskers to announce a postponement of the March 15 deadline for filing complete income tax reports are due for a disappointment. Harry F. Busey, collector of internal revenue, said there positively will be no postponement of the March 15 deadline for filing current income tax reports.

SPORTSMEN OF COUNTY WATCH WRITERS' MEET

Pickaway county sportsmen will watch with interest this week the conservation conference of the Outdoor Writers association of America being held in the Deshler-Wallick hotel, Columbus, beginning February 21 and ending February 23.

Many questions of interest to farmers and sportsmen will be discussed at the meeting.

Among the most prominent persons attending the conference will be Fredrick C. Walcott, president, American Wildlife Institute, Washington, D. C.; Nash Buckingham, sportsman-author, Memphis, Tenn., author of "De Shootnest Gent'man"; Ray Brown, editor, Outdoor Life; Jimmy Robinson, Sports Field; Dave Newell, editor, Field and Stream; Albert M. Day, acting director, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Chicago; Charles Jackson, assistant director, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D. C.; J. Hammond Brown, outdoor editor, Baltimore News Post; Johnny Mock, Pittsburgh Press; Morris "Ask Ask" Ackerman, Cleveland Press; Viv Gray, Cleveland Plain Dealer; Dave Roberts, Cincinnati Enquirer; Tom Wallace, editor, Louisville Times; Johnny Moore, managing editor, and Al Clark, sports editor, Dayton Herald; Louis Seltzer, editor, Philadelphia Inquirer; Bob Wilson, Washington D. C. Times-Herald; and Bob Becker, Chicago Tribune.

Conservation commissions from various states will attend including John M. Phillips, former president, Pennsylvania Game Commission. Writers, officials and sportsmen from many parts of the United States and Canada will be there.

Governor John W. Bricker, of Ohio; Commander Collis, U. S. Navy just returned from the Pacific battle front; Louis Seltzer, editor, Cleveland Press, and George M. Trautman, chairman, Ohio Conservation Commission, will speak on the grand banquet program Wednesday night, the 23rd.

Thrilling wild game motion pictures will be shown.

EXPIRATION DATE NEAR FOR FISHING LICENSES

Fishermen who are feeling the urge to get into action were notified Monday by the conservation department that 1943 licenses expire February 29.

New licenses have been shipped to dealers throughout the state and are ready for sale.

A break in the weather will send many sportsmen, who have been marking time through the winter, into action. Some have already been after fish, with varied success.
